Benton Barkhamer, a tin peddler, of Akron, Ohio, was fatally shot by Mrs. Mary Howe, a widow, living near Doyleston, Wayne County. It appears that Barkhamer had sold Mrs. Howe a quantity of tinware, and, as he claims, he called on her about ten o'clock that night for the purpose of collect-ing his bill. She refused him admittance at the front part of the house, and told him to go to a side window, where he endeavored to obtain entrance, and here was shot by Mrs. Howe, the ball taking effect in the left breast, lodging in the liver.

An explosion occurred lately in the new wing of the old Sydney Mines at Halifax. A large number of men were in the pit cut off from all help. The accident was caused by the explosion of gas. Six men were taken out dead, among them Greenwell, the Chief Overseer. The first to enter after the explosion were three brothers, Sullivan, who succeeded in rescuing thirteen of the cutters who were overcome by gas. They were unconscious for some time, but all slowly recovered. Sixteen pairs of cutters were at work here. On the south side of the mine a large number of men were at work, but all escaped uninjured. One of the Sullivans was prostrated while searching for the dead, but was fortunately res-

THERE is no remedy in the world so valuable to use in the case of sudden accident or illness as Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. It can be used internally and externally, and its power is truly marvelous.

The Pictorial History of the World, embracing full and complete authentic accounts of every nation of ancient and modern times, and including a History of the growth of the mations of Modern Europe, the Middle Apes, the Crusades, the Feudal System, the Edwardion, the discovery and settlement of the New World, etc., etc., by James D. McCare.

There has long been a great and universally-felt want of a History of the World suitable for general use. This want is now being supplied by The National Publishing Co., of Philadelphia, Pa., Chicago, Ill., St. Louis, Mo., and Dayton, Ohio, who have issued a handsome volume, entitled "The History of the World," by James D. McCabe, a well-known historical writer. This work will, undoubtedly, take rank as a Standard History. It is the most valuable book that has been published in this country for many years. It contains a separate and admirably-written history of every nation of ancient and modern times, and is full of valuable information concerning them, presented in popular style, and in a manner that will enable the reader to refer instantly to any subject upon which information is desired. The book is a complete treasury of history, and there is not a question that can be asked concerning any historical subject, but an answer to it can be found in this work. The author does not content himself with a mere dry statement of facts, but sketches the life and manners cess .- Fortnightly Review. Our Newspaper Advertising Bureau, No.
10 Spruce Street, New York, is an establishment intended to facilitate the convenient and systematic placing of advertisements in newspapers. It is conducted upon the principles which we conceive to be the right ones for securing the best results to the advertiser, the publisher, and ourselves.

We undertake to represent American newspapers, not only the newspapers of the city of New York and of all other American cities, religious, agricultural and other class torical subject, but an answer to it can be found in this work. The author does not content himself with a mere dry statement of facts, but sketches the life and manners of the various nations of which he treats, in life-like colors, and presents to the reader the causes which led to the prosperity and decay of the great powers of the world. He shows us the various great men—the warriors, statesmen, poets, sages, and orators—of accient and modern times, and makes them familiar to the reader. There is not a dry page in the book. It is as fascinating as a romance, and at the same time one of the most valuable works of reference ever published. We are constantly called upon to discuss the great questions of history, and the wars and quarrels of the nations of the old world require us to be continually refreshing our historical knowledge. So many discoveries have recently been made, so many of the old ideas and traditions have been exploded and shown to be mere myths and legends, that the subject of history may be said to be almost entirely new, and he who was well informed twenty years ago will find himself unable to discourse intelligibly upon historical subjects now unless he has kept up with the advance of historical research.

Extract from the New York Times, June, 14, Ten years ago Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. established their advertising agency in New York City. Five years ago they absorbed the business conducted by Mr. John Hooper, who was the first to go into this kind of enterprise. Now they have the satisfaction of controlling the most extensive and complete advertising connection which has ever been secured, and one which would be hardly possible in any other country but this. They have succeeded in working down a complex business into so thoroughly a systematic method that no change in the newspaper system of America can escape 1875. a systematic method that he change in the newspaper system of America can escape notice, while the widest information upon all topics interesting to advertisers is placed readily at the disposal of the public.
